● Getting to go on TV in a wig and pass judgement on other people's cooking

● Pickling a tarantula

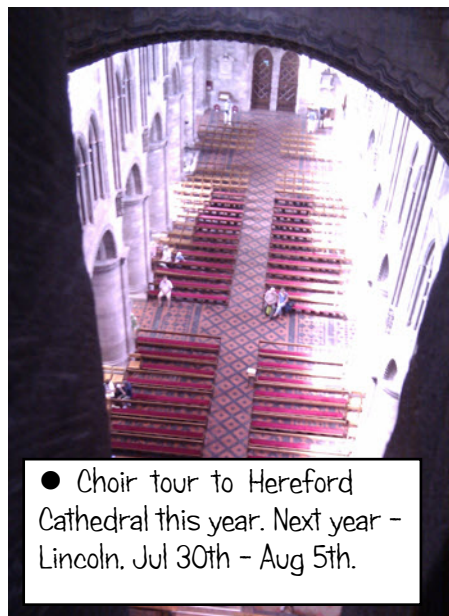

● Post-election, inclement multi-week sulk under canvass on Isle of Wight and North Wales.

● A widely held view, it seems.

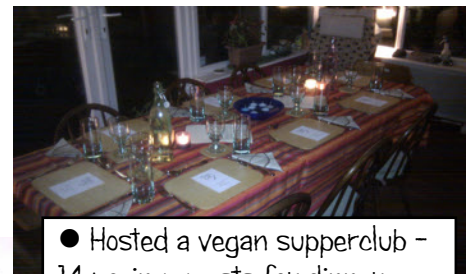

Well, another mad year. Appeared on Come Dine With Me in January. Came fourth. Ho hum. Fought an election in May. Came fourth - with only the top two winning seats. Maybe a pattern emerges...? Spent summer catsitting in France, on a few rainy camping weeks, in Hereford on a choir tour, and eventually got my shit enough together to use my languages degree to go back to Nottingham University and train to be a French/German teacher. The course has been tough going so far but I am enjoying my time in school. 14-week teaching practice begins in January and job ads for next September start to appear soon after that.

● Choir tour to Hereford Cathedral this year. Next year - Lincoln. Jul 30th - Aug 5th.

● V brief nephew Nottingham visit.

● Hosted a vegan supperclub - 14 paying guests for dinner
